I congratulate you on accepting the challenge of Advanced Placement Literature and Composition. The senior year will introduce you to world literature. Through the study of various literary forms, we will examine the changes in both writing and culture. As part of this program, I ask you to read at least two books over the summer. Both of these books can be purchased at any of our local bookstores or borrowed from the libraries. Furthermore, I have established message boards for each of the summer readings. You can reach the website at the following link: http://lcmraplit.freeforums.net/, once you go to the page follow the instructions for signing up. My advice is to do so before school lets out so if you have any problems, you can check with me. As you progress through the books, please post your comments (these can be significant quotes with your reactions, reflections on writing styles, or questions you may have.) I would like your response to How to Read Literature like a Professor posted no later than July 30th (2 postings). You will post on the other book at least twice before August 30th. One of the postings must apply ideas from How to Read Literature like a Professor to a chapter from your book. The postings reflect an AP student’s intellect and drive, so they should clearly be longer than one or two paragraphs. I will be checking twice a week and will answer questions and leave my comments. Upon your return to class in September, I will be assigning a separate essay of your reading to access your initial writing skills and comprehension skills. If you are looking for any other books to read and aim for books that have shown up on the AP Literature and Composition test, check Edmodo for a list of books appearing on the AP test as well as our fall syllabus – feel free to read ahead. Also, if I have not already set you up for Edmodo, please email me so I can get you the password. This will be our primary means of communication, and I will post all assignments on there. Thank you and have a wonderful summer. If you have any additional questions regarding the selections, email me at belasco@alumni.rutgers.edu.

How to Read Literature Like a Professor: A Lively and Entertaining Guide to Reading Between the Lines by Thomas C. Foster

What does it mean when a fictional hero takes a journey? Shares a meal? Gets drenched in a sudden rain shower? Often, there is much more going on in a novel or poem than is readily visible on the surface -- a symbol, maybe, that remains elusive, or an unexpected twist on a character -- and there's that sneaking suspicion that the deeper meaning of a literary text keeps escaping you.

In this practical and amusing guide to literature, Thomas C. Foster shows how easy and gratifying it is to unlock those hidden truths, and to discover a world where a road leads to a quest; a shared meal may signify a communion; and rain, whether cleansing or destructive, is never just rain. Ranging from major themes to literary models, narrative devices, and form, How to Read Literature Like a Professor is the perfect companion for making your reading experience more enriching, satisfying, and fun.
About the Author

Tom Foster is Professor of English at the University of Michigan, Flint, where he teaches classes in contemporary fiction, drama and poetry as well as creative writing and composition. He has written several books on twentieth-century British and Irish literature and poetry and lives in East Lansing, Michigan.
